With 1979-80 picked as the International Year of the Child, it was only fitting that the theme for Fall Festival be "It's a Small World", centering around the child and the family. It takes all kinds to make a world. And here at Bethel we're just a very small part of that world. But even though we're only a small part, Bethel reaches out to many states and foreign countries to gather students of all kinds to make a world of study and learning experiences.

Today's society is so caught up in getting ahead or being number one that many times we forget just who we really are and where we are in relation to everyone else in the world. As the Song "It's A Small World After All" says; "It's a world of laughter, a world of tears; it's a world of hopes and a world of fears. There's so much that we share, that it's time we're aware. It's a small world after all." Let these words be an inspiration to you as you go through the rest of 1980 and don't forget why we're here and who we really are. Remember that a smile means friendship to everyone and happiness spreads to love everywhere.

Games, Races, And Activities Begin Fall Festival

Fun, games, and no classes began Friday, October 5 to kick-off a weekend of Fall Festival.

Anything Goes Competition began in the afternoon with team activities. Teams had to enter early to participate and had to consist of six members-three female, three male. Participants could be seen breaking eggs, breaking balloons, eating bananas, taking their shoes off and putting clothes on, hopping, running, jumping, yelling, and most of all having a good time.

Ten teams participated in the event. Members of the winning team were: Vicki Peters, Paul Fraim, Jeff Bluma, Karen Schmidt, Kenton Wiens, and Charlotte Thiezen.

After the competition, other games were held to involve more students.

1) Shoes, shoes, shoes! All participants in the Anything Goes competition had their shoes in this pile for a race.
2) Mark Rich laughs at the ridiculous baggie, plaid pants and shirt he had to put on.
3) Students, faculty, and friends watch the Anything Goes competition with cheers, laughs, and ah's.
4) Amy Pjesky and Mike Wedel put on old clothes as they get ready to find their shoes in the jumbled pile.
5) Randy Neufeld and William McClain organize a game with a group of kids.
6) Brenda Headings tries to break an egg into the cup being held in Kendall Heinrichs mouth during another relay.

Fall Festival Full Of Activities

Convocation on October 5 officially opened Fall Festival '79 featuring the Interfaith Children's Choir of Denver. Friday's activities also included Anything Goes competition, other games, a Film Festival, a square dance, and the drama production of "The Diary of Anne Frank."

The main activities began Saturday morning with the Fall Fair, consisting of craft demonstrations, student art exhibts, exhibits by Academic Depatments, Clubs and Organizations, a Country Store, sale of Ethnic Baked Foods, and a hog butchering demonstration. The afternoon was spent watching Soccer, the auction, the spelling bee, readers theater, or "Down on the Farm" activities. The day was capped off by the Homecoming Football game with the Bethel Threshers Vs. Tabor College.

Sunday ended Fall Fest '79 with morning worship service at BC Church and the last production of "The Diary of Anne Frank" in the afternoon.

2) Cindy Lehman, Rich Toevs and Russ Schmidt enjoy barbeque chicken Saturday evening, October 5.
3) Mike Wedel stuffs marshmallows into Luke Flint's mouth for another phase of the Anything Goes competition.
4) The annual threshing machine in action draws a large crowd of on-lookers.
5) Jerry Hege tries his skill at pushing a metal ring around the green for a relay race.
6) Robert Harder prepares to kick the soccer ball away from his opponent. Terry Regier watches in the background as do many fans.

Student Life At Its Best

1 & 2) Monsters invaded the cafeteria Halloween night in costume only. Left is actually Tammie Goering and right, believe it or not?, is Russ Schmidt.
3) The latest fad to hit dorm decoryes a toilet seat. This one filled with a plant. Others were filled with fish or made into chairs.
4) Alan Deckert smiles for the camera while getting ready to ride his unicycle.
5) A class of Bethel students hold class outside on the Green.
6) Nuns visited the cafeteria Halloween night fully attired, with a reserved table and dinner by candlelight. Members of mods 7A and 7B participated in the event.
7) No it's not Easter but a Child! Students in Miller Stayrook's class got a taste of parenthood first semester by taking care of an egg for six weeks. It turned out to be an Eggs-asperating experience for all involved!

STUDENT LIFE

"The Diary Of Anne Frank" Opens Fall Fest

Closely tied in with the Fall Fest theme of "The Year of the Child," "The Diary of Anne Frank" portrayed the story of a young Jewish girl and her family and friends in the midst of World War II. It was a story of people, living together in minimal space and forced to work together and support each other in order to survive. Even more, it was a story of a child's growing up, of budding love, rebellion, the search for identity, and hope for the future. The process of growth stops for nothing, not even the tensions and strains of warfare and uncertainty. This story remains relevant today, as it reveals the effects of abnormal yet man-made pressures on family life and relationships.

Reader's Theatre Reads Theatrically

Students enrolled in Reader's Theatre find themselves participating in a rising form of communication. They write or cut their own scripts, developing programs of numerous expressive readings. As well as giving a noteworthy performance at convocation each year, the readers give presentations at churches, schools, banquets, and club meetings. The students enjoy the informal class where they work together to create their own style of presentation in a medium where they can both entertain and teach their audiences new ways of looking at things.

MENC: So You Want To Be A Teacher . . .

The Music Educator's National Convention allows students interested in teaching music an opportunity to learn more about music education. Working closely with the Kansas Music Education Association, members receive a magazine, attend workshops, and attend meetings where guest lecturers, usually first year teachers, speak about their experiences in teaching. Thus, students can discover if a music education career is right for them; the group is also helpful in planning future occupations for interested students.

Home Economics Club Creates Monsters

Home Ec Club was busy throughout the school year having monthly meetings, baking and selling cookies, and doing local projects. Members baked monster cookies to sell at Fall Fest and for other campus activities. Intermissions at all the plays were taken by the club selling doughnuts and drinks. Some of the special projects for the year included taking faculty children trick-or-treating on Halloween, making H.E.L.P. kits for freshmen during first semester finals week, purchasing club T-shirts, holding a Nutrition Fair for elementary children, and attending local and state home economics meetings.

Students Pursue Interests

Art Club

For students interested in art, the art club is a means to promote visual arts on the Bethel campus. This year, students went to the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, and arranged to show art-related films. In Krehbiel Auditorium and in the Administration Building, the art labs are open for students to work on painting, drawing, ceramics, printmaking and sculpture. The art gallery in Krehbiel maintains continuous exhibits of various artists, including our own Bethel faculty and students.

Math Club

Several times each year the math club meets for lectures by guest speakers or Bethel math professors. Twice this year famous mathematicians came to speak following banquets. The club provides additional resources for students interested in learning more about different aspects of the math field.

MINORITY CLUB Offers Students Support

Perhaps the most important function of the Minority Club is to work towards the recognition of minority students as a "real part of the Bethel College family," (Hope Mosley); that these students need no longer feel isolated. The club served as a type of support group for minority students. Its members address relevant issues affecting students, and through activities seek to help students cope with the new college environment. The highly successful Minority Week and the Survival newsletter are only a few of the group's activities this year.

1 PEACE FELLOWSHIP

Many students became familiar with the Peace Fellowship due to the initiation of once a month fasts, when the money saved was sent to needy causes. In addition to sponsoring these fasts, this group organized the timely and inspirational Peace Teach-In. Other activities included writing letters to congressmen, attendance at the Goshen assembly on a response to the draft-registration issue, and the drafting of a statement of Bethel students regarding the registration question. This group offers students a means by which they can, together, work to put their beliefs and concerns into positive action.

2 RELIGIOUS LIFE TEAM

The Religious Life Team is responsible for many types of religion-oriented happenings on the Bethel campus — campfires, chapel, concerts, small group Bible study, and special speakers to name only a few. The group also works with service projects, such as the Mennonite Disaster Service, and student counseling. The group's dedication has provided multiple opportunities for students to pursue their religious interests.

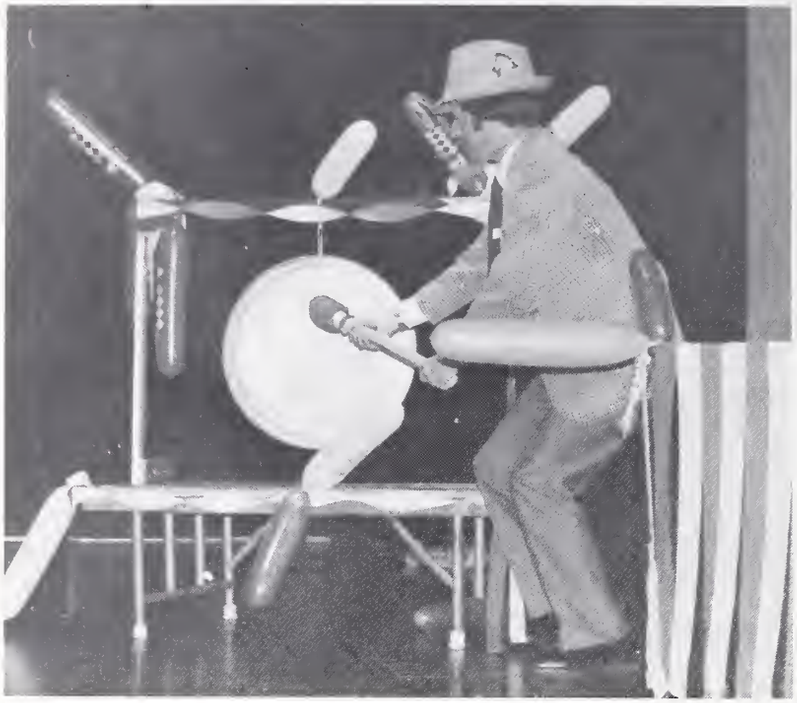

DEBATE

The debaters at Bethel, coached by Mel Goering, compete within a five-state region. Unlike athletics, there is no conference, so students compete against all types of schools with debate programs. Enthusiastically, Goering reports, "Bethel College is the only college with quality debate and forensics in Kansas."

3 FORENSICS

This year's forensics squad worked hard to achieve the well-deserved rank of ninth in the nation in the American Forensic Association. Coach Mark Stucky felt it was the student's own competitiveness that stimulated their excellent performances. Over the year he saw "real improvement in communicative skills." Students can use either public address or interpretive styles for speaking; these many types of involvement allow for a great deal of flexibility for the students. The forensics group offers interested students the change to compete regionally with their skills.

The Gong Show . . .

1 2

A new event in the arena of S.A.B. hall socials, the Gong Show proved to be the scene of Bethel wit and talent at its peak. Students revealed their unique and often undiscovered skills to a captive audience which wasn't quite sure what it had gotten itself into. From among the few who never heard that fateful gong, well-deserved awards went to the winners with the highest scores: a piano-picker, a rope swinger, and a class-A, fast-talking salesman. Who knows what lurks in the future for the Haury Hall Gong Show?

INTRAMURALS HIT BETHEL

Intramurals at Bethel have always been a major student activity, and this year was no exception. A large number of men and women participated in many kinds of games, enjoying the sportsmanship and physical exercise at all skill levels. Intramurals offer students an opportunity to play without the greater committment required by the varsity teams.

"Dear Ruth" is the comedy of a sweet, young woman and her radical and rash sister whose sneaky plan goes somewhat a wry. A love-letter romance becomes more than was intended and Ruth finds herself confronted with two fiances. The well-developed characters never fail to bring laughter and praise with their humanly-typical yet hilarious actions and sayings.

The play takes place in the Wilkins home in Kew Gardens, Long Island. There are two acts covering just two days for the entire play.

Musicians Jazz Up Bethel

Instrumental Band Plays On

Many students with a talent for playing musical instruments participated in either the jazz or instrumental bands. Led by Michael Steinel, the jazz group and the smaller jazz combos gave two main concerts in 1979-80 for Bethel audiences. This group also hosted clinicians for learning more instrumental skills, as well as performed at the student activity center on special occasions.

Dennis Friesen-Carper directed the instrumental band (Wind Ensembles), which presented winter and spring concerts at Bethel and played at the Newton High School's graduation. This group was often accompanied by Rich Toevs on piano.

The Thresher Staff

The THRESHER Staff worked hard all year to produce a quality yearbook for the Bethel students, faculty and alumni. This year the staff added color, a few more pages and changed to a fall delivery to allow for spring events all to be in the same book, with no supplement. Many hours were spent in spare time and time was made to get the book finished. Work did extend into the summer months however for the editor. The staff also attended a workshop in the fall to further their yearbook knowledge.

The COLLEGIAN Staff

The COLLEGIAN Staff kept a hectic two week schedule throughout the school year to publish a newspaper to keep the campus informed of local happenings. Time was spent every other Wednesday night laying out the paper to turn it in for printing and distributing on Friday's. This year's staff had more help and therefore published larger papers throughout the year. Second semester the staff got help from the Print Journalism class with writing articles.

Students Travel Through Interterm 1980

January, 1980 was the time for many students to do some exciting traveling. Through Bethel and other campus', trips were taken to Central America, Mexico, Europe, Russia and various parts of the U.S. Many students enjoy their interterm time as a period where they can learn by experiencing a different culture, lifestyle and setting.

1) Wilma Wollman, Preston Goering, Debbie Wiebe, and Valerie Orr sit atop a Mexican stone building during January.
2) June Gundy and a friend clown for the camera at a fountain in Europe.

International Students

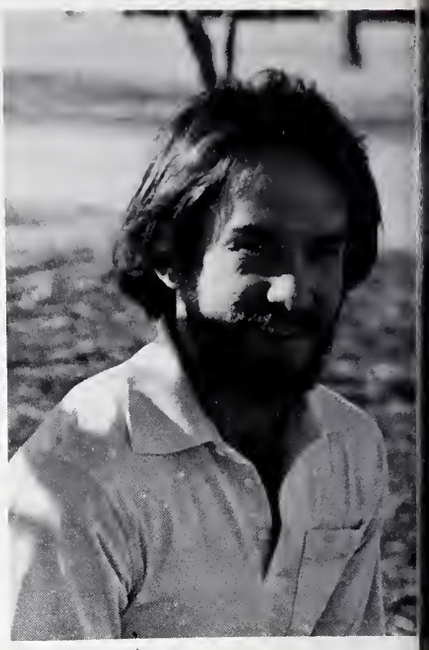

From Kenya, Uganda, Germany, Japan, India, and many other countries came students who are interested not only in furthering educational interests but in learning about a foreign country. The International Club meets for students to share their cultures and as a group which allows friendships to grow as students adjust to their life abroad.

Students Work And Learn Together

SAB (Student Activities Board) organizes and sponsors the many campus events for students, such as movies and films, dances, special events and discounts from town merchants. STUCO is an elected committee that works to regulate student affairs at Bethel.

SCAN workers work to place Bethel students in community employment or other types of relationships with the town of Newton.

ACEI, the Association for Childhood Education International, holds monthly meetings for anyone concerned about children. A part of the larger organization, the Bethel members receive a publication and attend a wide variety of programs and activities, each having a topic of its own, such as outdoor education. Janice Gundy Penner, Anne Herbert, and Margie Claassen held offices this year.

Play Brings A Touch Of Tragedy

The tragic story of a father and his dream to have his sons' understand him, "All my Sons" deals with the never-ending question of whether or not the end justifies the means. The characters must face the issue of whether they should treat their family with a higher sense of duty than their own sense of justice. The tragic question is how much a son owes his father and how much he owes himself.

The Mikado dominates his subjects while on the other side, Vickie Dyck plots her rise to power.

"The Mikado"

By Gilbert And Sullivan

Jim Friesen, Bryan Reber, and Mark Suderman discuss the problems of the Lord High Executioner.

Set in Titupu, Japan, "The Mikado" is the comical story of a forbidden love affair between a young, beautiful girl and a handsome minstrel, who also just happens to be the son of the Mikado himself, in disguise. The plot becomes more complex when it is learned that the guardian of the girl wants to marry her, himself, and the Mikado wants to kill them all. A touching tale of love and anger, confusion and mishaps, and a never-ending sarcstic presentation of and and his society. "The Mikado" brings a smile to the hearts of the audience. The musical production was a success with audiences May 1-3.

Gospel Choir Sings In Praise

The Gospel Choir, directed by Rosemary Robinson, is a group of students who have joined together in order to share the good news of song and God's love. Fuctioning independently from the Bethel music department, these people work hard to develop their own program of concerts and presentations here at home and away on tour.

Organ Guild

Taught by Shirley King, organ students at Bethel have the opportunity to join the Organ Guild. As a part of a larger organization, the guild offers its members the chance to develop their skills in performance by playing for audiences both around campus and away.

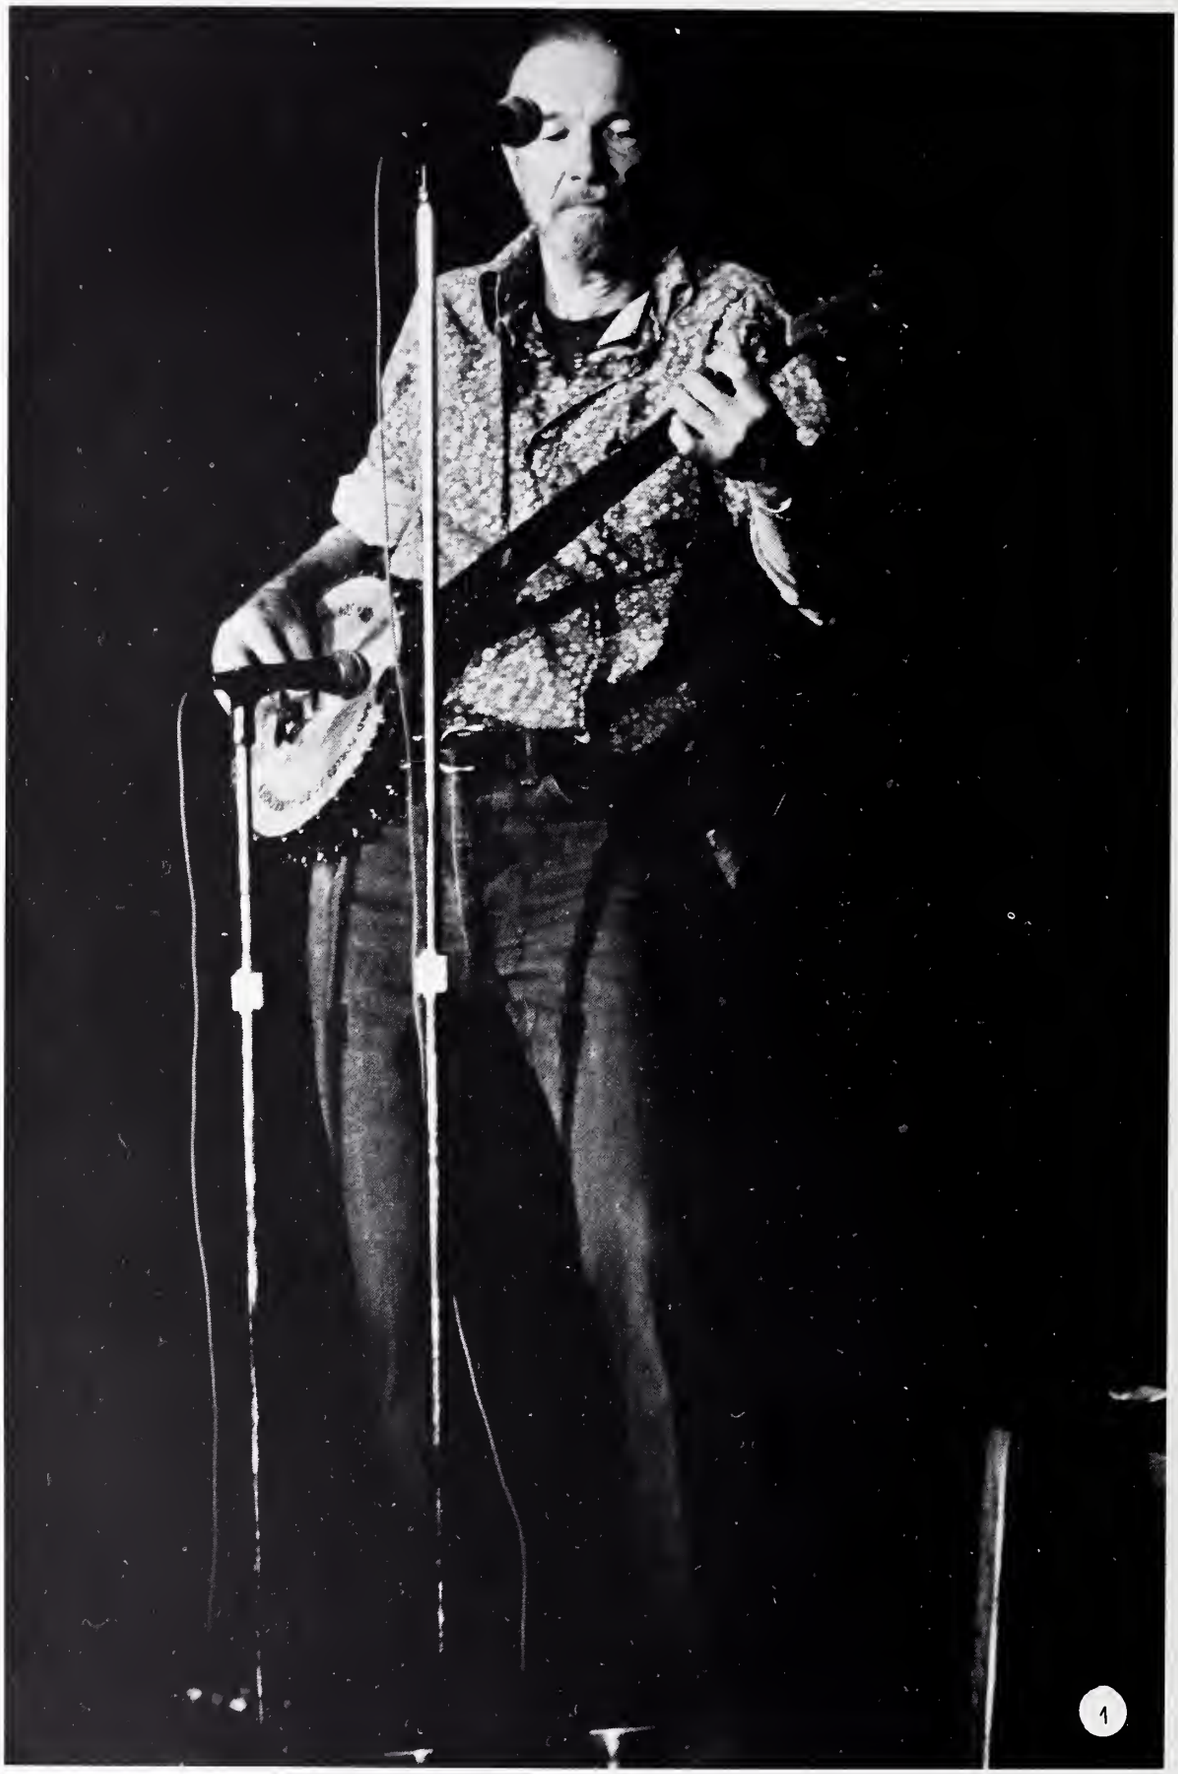

German Club

Bethel's German Club offers interested students a chance to gain insight into German speaking countries. Informal meetings, guest speakers, films and slides all create a situation for students to learn more about German lifestyle and culture than they can in the class-room setting.

1980 Commencement Exercises Held

One hundred and thirteen students received their degrees during the 87th annual commencement Sunday, May 25 at Bethel.

Graduation day began with baccalaureate services planned by the graduating students.

Commencement began Sunday afternoon with the commencement address being given by Archie R. Dykes, The University of Kansas chancellor.

Of the 113 graduates, 10 received the two-year Associate of Arts degree while 103 received either a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science degree.

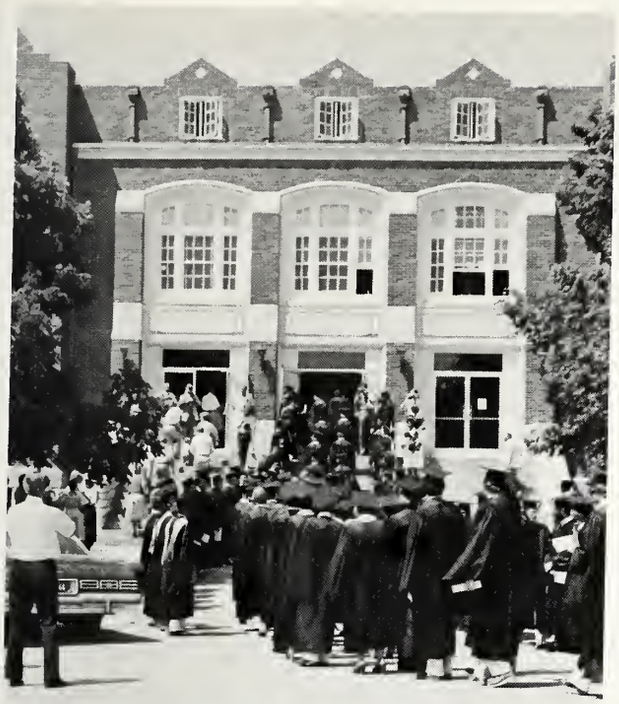

Graduation honors went to 39 students based on their academic records. Five seniors, Doug Harms, Gordon Harms, Rich Toevs, Jim Goering and Russ Schmidt, were selected by the faculty to membership in the Bethel Honor Society.

College graduation marks an end for many and another beginning for others. Some graduates had plans to further their education. Some were planning a marriage. Some were looking for jobs and some were even planning on taking it easy for awhile. But whatever the graduates of 1980 do, the future is sure to hold whatever they pursue for their life's career.

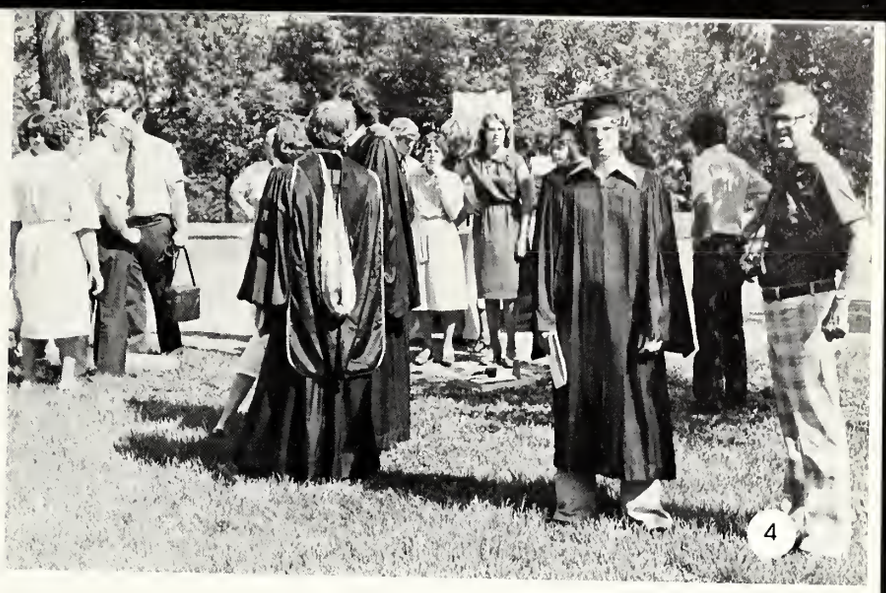

1) The Bethel College graduation class of 1980 begins their traditional march around the green before entering commencement ceremonies.
2) Seniors round the green preparing for their graduation.
3) The last leg of the march, up Mem Hall stairs.
4) Afterwards, it's time for congratulations from family and friends. Here senior, Roger Zimmerman gets ready to pose for pictures.
